

widespread, where it does happen it reduces the amount of new housing stock being occupied by households in need. Where the practice is widespread in a new building it can also negatively affect the provision of services to tenants.

- 4.9.3 It is unlawful for homes in greater London to be used as short-term holiday rented accommodation for a cumulative period of more than 90 days a year without seeking planning permission.<sup>65</sup> The use of dwellings as short-term holiday rentals can have a detrimental impact on neighbours' residential amenity and community cohesion in the wider area where concentrated in a particular location. The use also reduces the supply of homes available for people to live in.
- 4.9.4 Houses in multiple occupation (HMOs) are an important part of London's housing offer, reducing pressure on other elements of the housing stock. Their quality can, however, give rise to concern. Where they are of a reasonable standard they should generally be protected and the net effects of any loss should be reflected in Annual Monitoring Reports. In considering proposals which might constrain this provision, including Article 4 Directions affecting changes between Use Classes C3 and C4, boroughs should take into account the strategic as well as local importance of HMOs.

Policy H10 Housing size mix

- A Schemes should generally consist of a range of unit sizes. To determine the appropriate mix of unit sizes in relation to the number of bedrooms for a scheme, applicants and decision-makers should have regard to:
- 1) robust local evidence of need where available or, where this is not available, the range of housing need and demand identified by the 2017 London Strategic Housing Market Assessment
  - 2) the requirement to deliver mixed and inclusive neighbourhoods
  - 3) the need to deliver a range of unit types at different price points across London
  - 4) the mix of uses in the scheme
  - 5) the range of tenures in the scheme

<sup>65</sup> Pursuant to the Deregulation Act 2015 (sections 44 and 45: Short-term use of London accommodation: relaxation of restrictions and power to relax restrictions.): http://www.legislation.gov.uk/ukpga/2015/20/pdfs/ukpga\_20150020\_en.pdf

- 6) the nature and location of the site, with a higher proportion of one and two bed units generally more appropriate in locations which are closer to a town centre or station or with higher public transport access and connectivity
- 7) the aim to optimise housing potential on sites
- 8) the ability of new development to reduce pressure on conversion, sub-division and amalgamation of existing stock
- 9) the need for additional family housing and the role of one and two bed units in freeing up existing family housing.

B For low-cost rent, boroughs should provide guidance on the size of units required (by number of bedrooms) to ensure affordable housing meets identified needs. This guidance should take account of:

- 1) evidence of local housing needs, including the local housing register and the numbers and types of overcrowded and under-occupying households
- 2) other criteria set out in Part A, including the strategic and local requirement for affordable family accommodation
- 3) the impact of welfare reform
- 4) the cost of delivering larger units and the availability of grant.

4.10.1 The 2017 London Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) estimated the unit size mix of new homes required to meet London's current and projected housing needs using three different scenarios, the results of which are set out in the SHMA report addendum. The main factors influencing this size mix include the projected growth in different household types, assumptions about under-occupation, and the substantial number of overcrowded households in London, whose needs can be addressed by providing family-sized homes but also smaller homes for concealed households to move into. Boroughs can draw on the scenarios in the SHMA to understand housing mix requirements or to inform local assessments. While the SHMA identifies the full range of needs between 2016 and 2041, boroughs may wish to prioritise meeting the most urgent needs earlier in the Plan period, which may mean prioritising low-cost rented units of particular sizes.

4.10.2 Policy H10 Housing size mix sets out all the issues that applicants and boroughs should take into account when considering the mix of homes on a
